B. SUGENHEIMER'S -CHOICE-

The tobacco from which the cigars are made is grown entirely in conservatories, and the cigars are made on mahogany tables by thoroughbred Cubans in swallow-tail coats and white kid gloves. When a man smokes, one of these cigars, he walks on air and dreams that he has a diamond scarf pin and a sixty-five-dollar suit of clothes, and has just married rich. It makes the breath sweet, and keeps the teeth waite, and will torce a month on the smoothest lip in five weeks. It closets and clothes with the delicate odors and exquisite fragrance of heliotrope, new mown hay, jockey club and white rose. It will fasten the front gate every night, and carry the paper in the morning, chase the cats from the garden, drive the hens to water, and hardly ever fail to make one feel better all over. No wellregulated family can properly keep house without them: for the man who smokes this cigar will never cut wood too long for the stove, never swear when he puts up stove-pipes, never step on a lady's train, join a club or go down to the post-office after supper.
